Faculty of Architecture & Surveying

TODAY!

The CIOB meets the needs of all its members

The Faculty of Architecture and Surveying (FAS) provides a dynamic new industry identity for professionals working within the acquisition, design, use and care of the built environment.

Membership of the Faculty is open to all CIOB members. We encourage any CIOB member with an interest in architecture and surveying to join the Faculty.

FAS members benefit from a forum of debate and personally contribute to a knowledgeable and learning environment that best serves their own interest and that of the public.

So what's in it for you?

- A professional and business community to support your professional practice.
- A dynamic environment in which to share knowledge and experience.
- Leading edge news, stories and commentary to help you prosper in today's market for professional practice in the public interest.
- Access to high-quality Continuous Professional Development and support.

Objectives

The FAS five primary objectives are:

- Promote and conduct research, and disseminate information to those who influence, or are engaged in, the acquisition, design, use and care of the built environment.
- Respond to changing needs of industry, particularly in relation to education, training, and professional qualification.
- Influence reform of the property and construction industries, and government policy.
- Maintain and promote standards of competence and registers of competent member practitioners.
- Establish the Faculty of Architecture and Surveying as a centre of excellence within the CIOB.
